

Garda Lake . BRESCIA

MEDITERRANEAN REMINESCENCES ALONG THE NW COAST OF THE GARDA LAKE

A 6 km long hike (300 elevation range) in a rugged morphology dominated by impressive limestone cliffs. Gorges, holm-oak woods, traditional olive- and lemon groves and breathtaking views will be the highlights of the trail. We will observe refugial habitats of some Mediterranean plant species, like the holm-oak (Quercus ilex) and the rosmarin (Rosmarinus officinalis), as well as some beautiful subalpine species, like Physoplexis comosa and Daphne alpina, reaching unusually low elevations in the deep gorges that cross the massive calcareous outcrops.

OTHER INFO

The excursion will develop on hiking trails and cross terrain with exposed rock faces, where falls are possible. Hiking boots and outdoor wear for all temperatures (18 – 35 Celsius degrees) will be needed. Be prepared to spend 7 hours outside, including very sunny places and temperatures up to 35° C (95° F), occasionally windy.

The sites we will visit are home to wildlife that may be dangerous, including, but not limited to, snakes and disease carrying invertebrates. A repellent could be used to spray your clothes before the hike, however you should be aware that the bite protection cannot be guaranteed and the applications of the repellent can cause mild skin irritation or burning.

The organizers and the excursion coordinator are not responsible of any damage or personal injuries that may result from the hikes. All outdoor activities are carried out at your own risk.
